

After-school Science Market Study

To help improve the quality of science learning resources available to after-school programs, CSAS is collecting information about existing science programming in after-school settings. Working with state leaders, CSAS expects to find out more details about how science in after-school is happening in each state and secure evidence for improving and expanding the science opportunities for youth.

Results from this study are available in the Science in Afterschool Market Research Study report

Funding for this project is provided by the S.D. Bechtel, Jr., Foundation.